How to Bargain

Not everybody has the money to buy what they want. Fortunately, we can sometimes _____ prices. Bargaining is not appropriate at _____ stores or malls, but is an old tradition that is still popular at some markets or swap meets around the world. Bargaining takes a bit of _____, but it is good fun once you learn how to do it. Here are a few bargaining tips and rules!

1. When you ask “How much...?” the store owner will respond with the _____ price. This is sometimes much more than he or she actually expects to receive.
2. Always offer lower than you are willing to _____ but not too low!
3. You can only raise your price. If you start at $50, your next _____ must be $51 at least.
4. Smile each time you make an offer.
5. Walk away if the store owner does not _____ your final offer (if it is a fair price).

Remember, if the store owner is smiling when you finally _____ something, you did not bargain enough. Try harder next time!
